NUMB3RS BECOME PART OF A RACER'S IDENTITY

In SCCA Club Racing, as often as not, the choice of a number can be a very personal thing. Or sometimes it is just happenstance that it eventually becomes personal – a key identifying element of a racer's persona. Here are the stories behind some MiDiv racers numbers.

Natha Waldbaum (T1 "Li'l Red Corvette") No. 5 – "When I analyzed the numbers available I landed on the number five as there are five members of my immediate family. It has become a focus for many things: the five-second rule, back in five minutes and torque all five of my lug nuts please! Many silly things have come out of using this number and I even had a piece of jewelry made to match."
